ECATTS' Sr. V.P. speaks about BMPs

Last month, ECATTS' Sr. V.P., Jerry Arcaro, traveled to Arlington, Virginia, to speak at the Association of General Contractors (AGC) Environmental Conference. His presentation, "Best Management Practices for Ensuring Company-Wide and Job-Site Compliance," focused on BMPs from the boardroom to the construction site to project closeout. Jerry addressed the issues Contractors have related to implementing BMPs in their industry.

Jerry is also publishing a BMPs manual for on-site job compliance which will be available this summer through Amazon.com.

Summer Support Tip

Did you know that there are ECATTS User Manuals on both the operational and administrator sites that can answer just about any ECATTS-related questions you have?

You can find the User Manual in the blue navigation panel located at the top of your ECATTS login page. Or, find the ECATTS Administrator Manual in the blue navigation panel across the top of the Admin Home Page.

But remember, if you can't find the answer to your question in either manual, you can always contact us directly at support@ecatts.com. We are happy to help!

NAVMAG Shares its Success with ECATTS

Naval Magazine (NAVMAG) Indian Island has initiated a new process for training all Contractors coming on base, making ECATTS their standard for environmental awareness training.

EMS Coordinators, with support from Facilities, incorporate ECATTS' environmental training requirements into all project plans on base. This process ensures all Contractors have the necessary environmental awareness knowledge while performing their job.

To further utilize the system, the EMS Coordinator is also planning to extend ECATTS to all military and civilians on base, eliminating continuous time-consuming classroom training sessions.

"The customer service provided by ECATTS personnel and ease of use of the modules enhance the product, and makes this a good way to get training to all levels of base and contractor personnel in a short period of time."
