

Did You Know?

Did you know ESOHTN offers video training in addition to our thousands of online modules?

These video courses offer the same awareness training you need in a new informative and visual format.

- “HAZWOPER: First Responder Awareness” Video Training — An overview of the duties of the first responder in a hazardous materials accident. This video addresses the information that a first responder should obtain before calling the emergency dispatcher.
- “SPCC: Oil and Water Do NOT mix” Video Training — An overview of the SPCC rule and its requirements. This video reviews SPCC Plans, oil pollution regulations, effective oil storage and oil transfer procedures.
- “Spill Response: Non-Emergency HazMat” Video Training — An overview of procedures for various spill situations. This video reviews HAZMAT spill discovery and assessment, non-HAZWOPER spill response, and incidental release cleanup procedures.

ESOHTN Employee Spotlight

Exciting news about one of our ESOHTN team members! Barbara Murphy, Content Specialist, has been chosen as a judge for this year’s Green Schools Recognition Program in South Florida.

This program recognizes public and private schools, grades K-12, that encourage cultures of sustainability within their school environments. Barbara will be judging applications based on an extensive rubric the program has instilled.

What a great way to get sustainability awareness out into the community!

¿Hablas Español?

The ESOHTN team has been busy enhancing our system by adding Spanish courses to our list. All of our general Contractor training has recently been translated for your convenience.

If you are in need of Contractor training for Construction, Electrical, Hazard Abatement, Mechanical, Painting or Sitework, we now have these courses available in Spanish.

Spring Support Tip
